Dear Anushree:

Thank you for the opportunity to consider your application to our Biotechnology Master's program at Syracuse University. Based upon the Admissions Committee's review of your application, I am very pleased to inform you that we hereby offer you admission into our Master's program, beginning in the Fall semester of the 2021-2022 academic year.

In addition to the above offer of admission, we are excited to offer you a one-time Biotechnology Scholarship in the amount of 9 tuition reduction credits, which will cover the cost of tuition for 3 credits per semester during your three semesters in the program (i.e., 3 credits for the Fall 2021 semester, 3 credits for the Spring 2022 semester, and 3 credits for the Fall 2022 semester). This scholarship has an estimated value of approximately $15,147, based on the current 2020-21 graduate-level tuition cost of $1,683 per credit. It is possible that you may also qualify for additional financial assistance in the future.

If you wish to accept our offer of admission, please sign and return the attached MS Biotechnology Admission Offer Acceptance page (i.e., page 2 of this letter). In fairness to those students on our list of alternates, please let us know as soon as possible of your acceptance. However, you do have until Thursday, May 27, 2021. If we do not receive a signed acceptance from you by Thursday, May 27, 2021, the offers described in this letter will be revoked.

In addition to this letter, you will also be receiving an e-mail from the Syracuse University Graduate Enrollment Management office ("Grad Adm"), with the subject line "Syracuse University Admission Notification & Intent to Register." Please follow the instructions in this e-mail in order to officially confirm your acceptance, or to decline the offer of admission.

We sincerely hope that you will accept our offers, and look forward to having you with us as an important part of Syracuse's graduate community and as one of our colleagues.

Sincerely,

Dr. Katharine Lewis
Chair, Department of Biology
